

N-R-G Tablets

In today's fast-paced world it's easy to get overextended. Many people reach for a cup of coffee or a candy bar for a pick-me-up, only to find their energy levels fall even further shortly afterwards. That's why Herbalife created N-R-G Tablets.

The guarana plant has been cultivated since pre-columbian times in the Amazon region. The plant itself is a climbing vine that sometimes can reach heights as high as 10 meters. After blooming yellow flowers in the dry season, the plant produces a pear-shaped fruit containing bunches of seeds. When the fruit is ripe, it starts to split open, revealing the seeds inside and indicating that it is ready to harvest. The seeds are then roasted, much like coffee beans, and processed for consumption.

Guarana can be used in several forms – primarily tablets, powder and syrup. In Brazil, the syrup is commonly found in sodas and several popular brands on the market.

Guarana has a unique, slightly fruity taste.

The chemical substance that makes guarana effective as a natural energy booster is guaranine. This substance acts much like caffeine and can increase alertness, elevate vitality and possibly even help reduce appetite.*

Based on the ancient herbal wisdom of the Amazon Indians, N-R-G Tablets contain energizing guarana seed.* This powerful herb provides an energy boost that is similar to that of caffeine but slower and more sustained.* As a result, guarana helps the body maintain good energy levels over a period of hours.*

This convenient supplement comes in tablet form so it can be carried on-the-go and used mid-morning or mid-afternoon whenever you need an energy boost.*
